Firstmark, SAMSAT Helping Teachers in Underserved Communities

The Firstmark Foundation is pleased to announce its grant award of $100,000 to SAMSAT, the San Antonio Museum of Science and Technology, in support of the SAMSAT Educator Fellows Program. The program will train twelve teachers over one year in methods of project-based learning (PBL), including three teachers with prior experience who will also serve as mentors. With a focus on aiding teachers who serve underrepresented populations via Title I schools, the program is designed to provide professional development and an overall unique experience.

"The Firstmark Foundation believes in giving back to our education community where it leads to access and opportunity, and this program will do just that. We are beyond excited to partner with SAMSAT, to play a role in helping this program come to life, and thankful to Power of the Dollar® members for making this all possible."

Marisa Pérez-Díaz
Executive Director/Firstmark Foundation

Professional development opportunities are limited and, oftentimes, come at an added expense to the educator, which could impact their growth in the field. By merging both practice and training through PBL, it will provide teachers advantages toward their real-world transition. The program will also give each teacher the chance to make two visits to SAMSAT AREA 21® on field trips with their students, where they will receive direct assistance integrating new approaches into daily practice.

This is the first high impact grant the foundation has awarded SAMSAT.
